United States Department of Agriculture,

DIVISION OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY.

[Formerly Division of Ornithology and Mammalogy.]

DISTRIBUTION AND SALE OF PUBLICATIONS.

In compliance with an act of Congress approved January 12, 1895, providing for the distribution of public documents, and in obedience to an order issued by the Honorable Secretary of Agriculture, dated January 10, 1896, the publications of the Biological Survey can not be sent to individuals not already on the regular mailing list except in the case of persons contributing directly to the investigations of the Division.

The law requires that "all documents at present remaining in charge of the several Executive Departments, bureaus, and offices of the Government not required for official use shall be delivered to the Superintendent of Documents, and hereafter all public documents accumulating in said Departments, bureaus, and offices not needed for official use shall be annually turned over to the Superintendent of Documents for distribution or sale."

Applications for documents should be addressed to the Superintendent of Documents, Union Building, Washington, D. C., and not to the Biological Survey or Department of Agriculture. The prices are fixed by the Public Printer, according to law. All remittances should be made by money order and not by private check or postage stamps.

A monthly list of the publications of the Department of Agriculture (with prices) is issued on the first of each month and is sent free on application to the Chief of Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

The Biological Survey issues two series of publications: (1) Bulletins, containing the results of investigations relating to the food habits of birds and mammals of economic importance; (2) North American Fauna, consisting almost exclusively of technical papers, which are intended for distribution to libraries and specialists.

The number of copies printed of North American Fauna is insufficient to supply the addresses on the regular mailing list of the Division, hence precedence is given to libraries and contributors. Persons contributing notes or specimens to the preparation of a particular report are entitled to a copy of that report.

Eight Bulletins have thus far been published; of these, No. 2 on Bird Migration in the Mississippi Valley (1888), No. 3 on Hawks and Owls of the United States (1893), and No. 4 on Prairie Ground Squirrels of the Mississippi Valley (1893), are out of print, and can not be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents. The last number of North American Fauna is 12, but Nos. 2, 7 (Report of the Death Valley Expedition), and 10 are out of print, and Nos. 6 and 9 have not yet been issued. Short papers on birds and mammals have also been published in the Annual Reports for 1886-1893, and in the Yearbooks for 1894 and 1895. The Annual Reports and Yearbooks can usually be obtained free upon application to Members of Congress.
